Raleigh. N. C., November 5.—
Te-night while the Victor hose wagon, manned by negroes was responding to a fire alarm, it ran over William Robbins, the seventeen-year-old gen of J. H. Robbins, both the fore and hind wheels of the heavy truck passing over his legs diagonally from knee to hip, tearing and bruising the flesh terribly, but breaking no bones. Two other boys collided, and badly missed being under the horses' hoofs and the wagon, and the Robbins boy made a sharp turn to get out of the mix-up. Hig wheel skidded, throwning him in a heap under the swiftly-moving fire apparatus.

It was an insatiable audience that greeted the Bostonia Sextet Club at the City Auditorium last night. It was an audience that demanded one or more encores to every selection rendered by the talented company of musicians, it was also a very large audience, and a very cultured one-one whose approval would not be bestowed indiscriminately. Some declared the concert to have been the treat of several seasons. While this opinion might have been prompted by the enthusiasm of the moment, it was not at odds with the general verdict.

Ten numbers, embracing an infinite variety of selections from old and new masters, made up the program. The sextet was assisted by Miss Katherine Melley, soprand. Solo numbers by C. L. Staats, clarinet; Elmer C. Adams, vollin; Carl A. Osterberg, cello, together with the vocal selections of Miss Melley, were the feature of the evening. Miss Melley introduced to her audience a voice of remarkable clearness and purity, also a stunning gown made with the true Parisian hobble effect. Her rendition of "Pack Away Clouds," with clarinet obligate by Mr. Staats, was perfect, displaying marvelous control in the execution of very difficult passages.

In all the Bostonia Sextet Club is one of the most talented organization ever heard in Richmond. The personnel is as follows:

INSTITUTE HOUR OBSERVED.

V. M. I. Cadeta Hear Lecture by General Nichols.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lexington, Va., November 5.—Friday from 12 until 1 o'clock Institute Hour was observed in the Jackson Memorial Hall at V. M. I., the cadets attending in a body. This is an hour set apart once a month for the meeting of faculty and cadets for the discussion of important questions which have arisen, or for the purpose of hearing some well-known speaker.

which have possed well-known speaker.

At the meeting the corps of cadets was fortunate in having General Nichols as the speaker of the coersion. He delivered his celebrated lecture, "The Dependence of Consequents Upon Antecedents as a Universal Law," making excellent application to cadet life of the principles therein set forth. The address was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard it, and the line of reasoning pursued was clear-out and flawless.

Thursday, November 11, being the seventy-first anniversary of the founding of the institute, there will be a suspension of duty until 5 o'clock in the afternoon on that date. At 12 o'clock the customary salute of twenty-one guns will be fired, and as usual battailen parade will take place at 5 o'clock.

South Richmond even nearer together than at present.

South Richmond people generally highly appreciate the action of the Folice Bonevolent Association in electing the members of the old Manchester police force as full members, entitled to all the rotirements of the association. Chairman Brown sought to cover the point when the agreement of annexation was being drawn, but was then informed that the Folice Benevolent Association is a voluntary contributing organization, composed of members of the police force. The city does not contribute to it, and had no control over its affairs, and therefore could not guarantee the election of the Manchester policemen as members. The action is the more liberal since several of the Southside officers have been on the force for a numbers of years, and therefore are the nearer to the ago of retirement.

The company has a plant for making shovels at Parkersburg, W. Va. When in operation the new plant will probably employ about 100 men.
